STARGRES FOUNDATIONS

Stargres is a brand whose strength is not born from numbers, but from people — from their experience, sensitivity, and attentiveness to the rhythm of the market. Our products are created through dialogue: between technology and nature, between manufacturer and architect, between an idea and its material form. Each collection is a conscious decision — shaped through observation, grounded in knowledge and experience, and introduced with a strong sense of responsibility.

At Stargres, we understand that a truly good product is not born on the production line, but much earlier — in conversation. With architects and clients, throughout the course of project development, and through a thoughtful understanding of how contemporary spaces are shaped today. By creating products at the very stage where ideas take form, we provide architects with tools that enable them to work with symbolism, meaning, and narrative within interior spaces.

CONSCIOUS DESIGN

The latest Stargres collections represent a step towards diversity and complete creative freedom. These carefully curated collections draw inspiration from the elements of nature, minerals, and precious stones — interwoven with the discipline of modernism, the geometry of Bauhaus, and the refined austerity of technical materials. Each surface tells a story of matter — expressed through the interplay of light, subtle nuances, and multidimensional finishing effects that bring depth and distinctive character to any space.

RESPONSIBLE DESIGN

Our collections are born from the observation of nature — its structures, rhythms, and processes that have shaped the world for millennia. It is within these elements that we seek inspiration, creating collections in which form meets function, and aesthetics align with durability. Every detail is carefully considered. Every surface tells its own story, enabling architects and designers to create spaces rich in meaning, expression, and balance. At Stargres, nature, geometry, and technology converge into one cohesive whole — deliberate and timeless.

Every Stargres material is produced in Poland, in full harmony with nature and the environment. From the careful selection of raw materials, through a precise manufacturing process, to the final product — each stage is deliberate and responsibly managed. Water, energy, and raw materials are recovered and reused at subsequent stages of production, while technological waste does not mark the end of the process, but becomes part of the material's renewed lifecycle. As a result, we help create interiors that are conscious, meaningful, and defined by harmony.

For us, environmental awareness is not an empty marketing slogan, but a daily practice. We invest in energy-efficient technologies, photovoltaic systems, heat recovery solutions, and innovations that tangibly reduce our carbon footprint. At the same time, we believe that responsibility begins with knowledge. Therefore, education constitutes an integral part of our activities.

STAR TRAINING CENTER

The Star Training Center is a space dedicated to dialogue with architects, contractors, and clients. It is a place where theory meets practice, and where design engages with the possibilities of material. Here, ideas take on tangible form and find their reflection in Stargres collections. The Center fosters the exchange of experience, the testing of solutions, and the search for inspiration that responds to real market needs. It is also a space for education and collaboration, supporting conscious design and the development of contemporary architectural concepts.

ELEMENTS COLLECTIONS

N

Fire, Water, Air, Earth. Energy, adaptability, openness to innovation, and solid foundations. In our philosophy, a tangible dimension was essential. We therefore created collections dedicated to the four elements — Earth, Water, Fire, and Air. Developed with exceptional attention to detail, they are intended for those who appreciate distinctive and unconventional design. The Elements collection presents graphics that tell a story of product awareness, highlighting the importance of forces that may go unnoticed in everyday life, yet remain essential to existence.

The most elusive of the four elements, Air offers a new perspective and encourages thinking beyond established patterns. Inspired by lightness and freedom, it reflects the essence of an element that brings a sense of openness and breath. Its patterns and finishes introduce freshness and spatial clarity, creating interiors that are bright, balanced, and open.

Drawing on the power of an element that has symbolized safety and stability for centuries, Earth is a collection rooted in nature — solid, calm, and defined by inner strength. It forms a foundation for modern, harmonious interiors. Just as the earth provides the strength to grow, this collection becomes a starting point for spaces built on stability and balance. It is not merely a material, but a symbol of the relationship between space, home, and everyday life.

FIRE COLLECTION

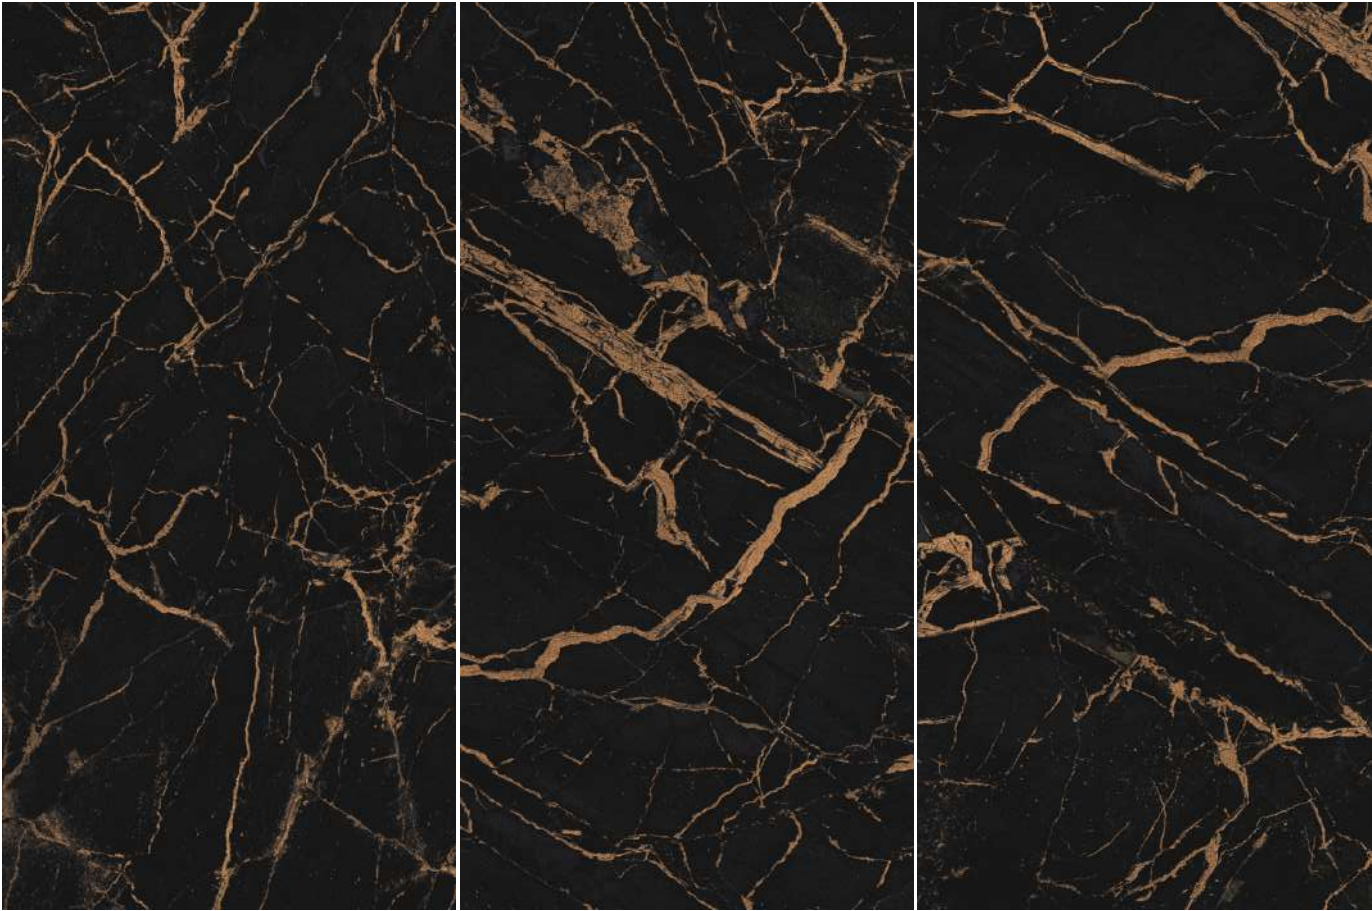

An eruption is a rare phenomenon — yet when it occurs, it captivates. The energy and intensity of fire inspired us to create a multidimensional and distinctive product. The fluid geological processes taking place within the earth's crust reflect the continuous circulation of one of the four elements. The Fire collection embodies passion, strength, and transformation. Its characteristic finishes introduce warmth and energy into interiors, enhancing their bold and expressive style.

WATER COLLECTION

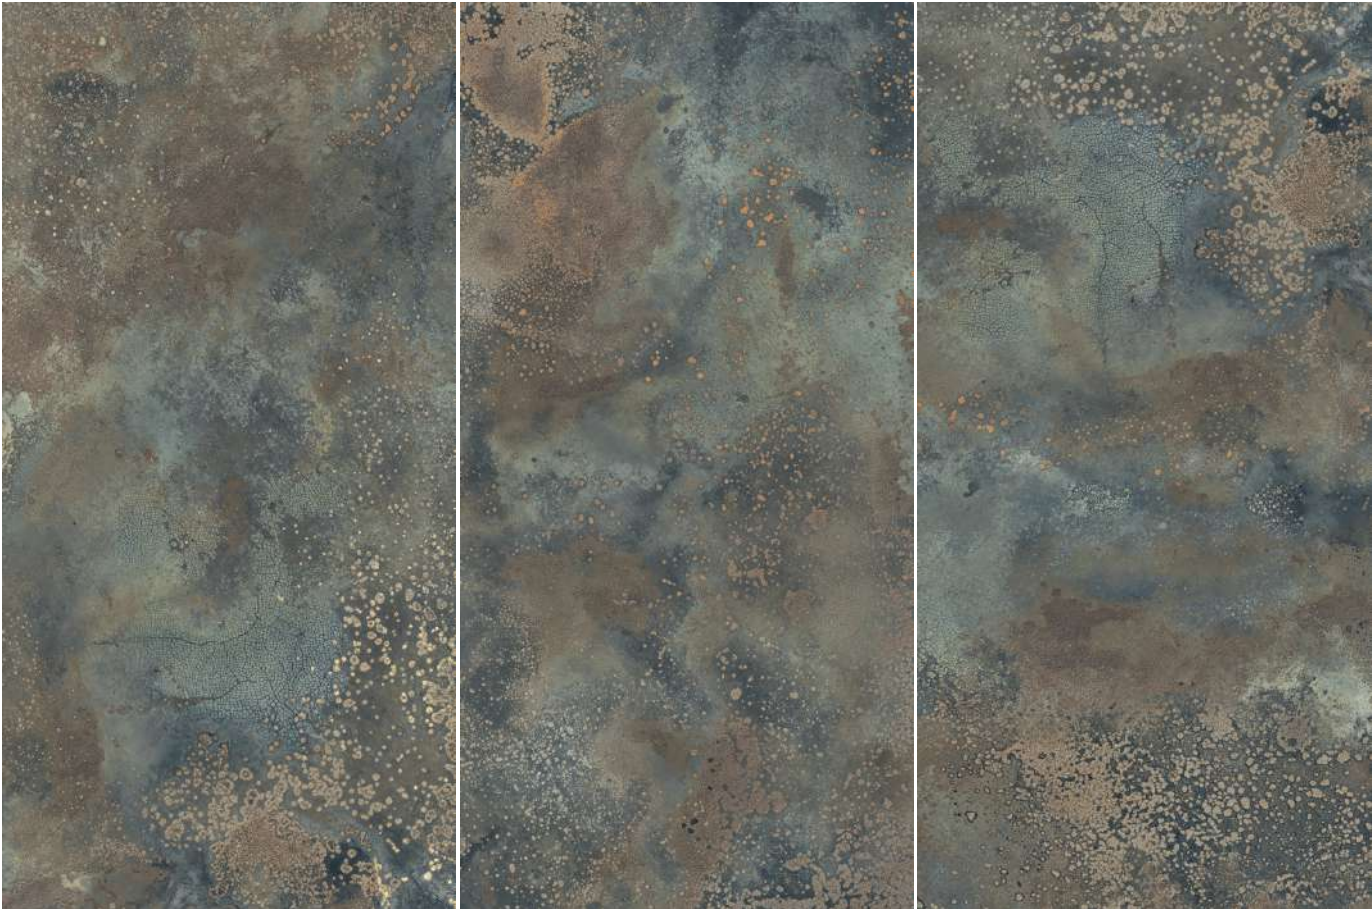

Imagine space as a metaphor for the free exchange of ideas, openness, and adaptability — because interiors, like people, evolve and change. The surfaces of the Water collection reflect light like a tranquil lake. At close range, they reveal subtle nuances, microstructures, and variations in texture. Each fragment responds differently to light and perspective, creating a sense of depth and movement.

MINERALS COLLECTIONS

N

Minerals are formed through geological processes that shape new structures and materials. Much depends on raw materials, soil, and climate — factors beyond human control. The Minerals collection by Stargres, however, is entirely created and manufactured by human expertise. While it differs in composition and production process, it shares one undeniable characteristic with natural minerals: organic authenticity. The graphics on the tiles imitate stone, while the porcelain base is produced from natural raw materials. It is a conscious synthesis — combining the strength and permanence of minerals with the power of technology and human creativity.

ARAGONIT COLLECTION

The Aragonit collection reinterprets the classic elegance of travertine in a contemporary spirit. Aragonit Vein, inspired by vein-cut travertine, reflects the natural rhythm and refined elegance of stone, bringing subtle dynamism to interiors. Aragonit Cross reveals transverse structures and irregularities, presenting a more dynamic, textured surface rich in depth and detail. It draws inspiration from the cross-cut stone known as Rapolano.

Advanced production technologies have enabled the recreation of its natural character on large-format porcelain slabs, resulting in a product that combines the nobility of stone with the functionality and durability of gres porcelain.

Designed for expressive and bold interiors, Lateryt aligns seamlessly with the aesthetics of Japandi and contemporary minimalism, while offering versatile application on both floors and walls. Within a space, it becomes an ambiguous material — at times serving as a background that enhances colors and forms, while simultaneously drawing attention through its own presence. Its character shifts depending on light, viewing angle, and composition, enabling the creation of interiors rich in rhythm, depth, and unexpected effects.

Porfir is a stone resistant to everyday use, yet rich in subtle nuances of color and texture. Interiors featuring Porfir become spaces that live, breathe, and inspire. The choice of material is more than a purchasing decision — it is a gesture that defines the direction of one's world. It is a choice created for architects and designers, Porfir combines the timeless durability of stone with the modern aesthetics of contemporary interiors.

MODERN COLLECTIONS

N

The Modern collections embody functionality, precisely balanced forms, simplicity, and geometry. They represent not a superficial play with form, but a renewed perspective on interior styling. For years, we have drawn inspiration from the art movements of the 1930s — Dadaism, Modernism, and Bauhaus. These movements shaped our mood boards and inspired our tile designs. Guided by this philosophy, we have consistently approached product development from a different perspective. Once again, we have challenged convention, investing in forms that resist clear definition. Modern is a collection that speaks its own language — at times abstract, at times bold, yet always contemporary.

DESSAU COLLECTION

This is how spaces are created where simplicity meets expression. Geometric forms establish order, while vibrant accents introduce vitality. The Dessau collection was conceived for those seeking harmony between function and art. It invites the creation of interiors that pulse with rhythm and breathe with color — from intimate private spaces to bold commercial projects. Combining minimalism with contemporary design, the collection offers a variety of colors, textures, and geometric patterns that allow for creative freedom in arrangement.

ORGANIC COLLECTION

The Organic collection is a tribute to the raw materials from which every detail is created — from foundation to finish. Subtle tonal variations, a refined structure, and a muted color palette ensure that Organic tiles form a backdrop for architecture, enhancing authenticity without dominating the space. Designed for heavily used environments, the collection features an R10 slip-resistance rating, making it suitable for both walls and floors.

Inspired by OSB board and influenced by the experimental spirit of Dadaism, Sawdust reflects an unconventional and ironic approach to form. The surface balances between chaos and order, evoking the aesthetics of late twentieth-century functional spaces — now reinterpreted within a contemporary architectural context. It is not nostalgia, but a conscious dialogue with the material language of a past era, translated into modern design.
